Pamela Cicora compiled the following research in 1991.

A HISTORY OF STOW-MUNROE FALLS SCHOOLS

The Beginnings of Stow

In 1795, Joshua Stow of Middletown, Connecticut, bought Township 3 Range 10 in the Western Reserve for $14,154. Joshua Stow joined the first expedition to the Western Reserve in 1796. After arriving, the explorers built a shelter for their supplies and named the building "Stow's Castle" after Joshua Stow. Joshua Stow later made 13 additional trips from Connecticut to Stow. Even though the city of Stow is named after Joshua Stow, he never became a resident of Stow. Instead, the first resident of Stow was William Walker of Virginia in 1802.

First School

Walker purchased land and built a log cabin that housed Stow's first school. In 1806 Walker sold the cabin to Dennis Ryan for use as the schoolhouse. Ryan charged $1.50 a year to teach. The first year Ryan had 15 pupils. The school year lasted only three months. In 1808 the school moved from the Walker's cabin to an empty cabin built by Samuel Burnett at the intersection of Darrow and Graham roads. This school was used for two years and the curriculum consisted of reading, writing, and arithmetic.

The first schoolhouse to be built in Stow was in 1810 near Stow Corners. The school was originally named Wetmore but later changed to Center School. This school was used for six years until another school was built in 1816 near the center of Stow. Also during 1816, a school was also built in the southern area of Stow for the children living in what became known as Munroe Falls. There were 10 schools in the township by 1825.

In 1835 Stow officially established its first of eight school districts. Each district contained a one-room schoolhouse. The subjects taught were orthography, reading, writing, arithmetic, geography, algebra, logic, natural philosophy, and chemistry.

Numbers Increase

Stow had eight sub-districts by 1853. The acting director of the Stow school district was Moses Call. The population of the district was 334 students.

In 1853 a bond issue to decide the construction of a high school was defeated. Thus, after completing Grade 8, if the students wanted to pursue their education they had to either go to high school in Kent or travel to Akron.

The Stow Board of Education appointed the first textbook committee in 1871. Prior to this time McGuffey Readers and Webster's Dictionary were used. If the schools were to supplement their curriculum with any other books the teachers would select books themselves.

In 1885 Munroe Falls built a new schoolhouse on the corner of Dan-ow Road and Munroe Falls Avenue. Years later, this school became the Town Hall for Munroe Falls.

Central School Constructed

In 1897 Stow served 254 students, and in four years the district was once again overcrowded. To help alleviate overcrowding voters approved a bond issue in 1906. The funds were used to build a centralized three-year school high school at a cost of $12,000. Three acres of land were purchased at the cost of $600 for the new high school. The land and the school were located at the corner of Route 91 and Graham Road, where the city hall is. While building the new school they had one major problem: money. In April 1907, voters approved another bond issue for $16,000 to finish the school.

In September 1907, the old school house 3 was moved to a new site and used as a school wagon shed. The new three-year high school was the first centralized school in Stow

Stow also rented the Stow Church in 1908 at a cost of $10 for their commencement exercises. The first class of 21 students graduated from the new high school in 1909.

Transportation

With a new centralized school, transportation now became a problem for the district. The Board of Education paid $2.50 a day to transport the pupils to school. They hired teams of horse wagons and drivers to transport the students back and forth to the new high school.

In 1909 an addition was added to Central School. In 1914 the voters approved $20,000 to be used to build another addition to Stow Centralized Schools.

Munroe Falls school district joined the Stow schools in 1916. Also at that time, a 12th grade was added to the school system.

The Stow school district was active in sports during 1917. Pictures show that both the boys and girls were able to have competitive basketball teams.

In November 1919 the voters approved a levy for a new high school. A two-room portable classroom was added to house all students in the district.

The 1920s

In 1920 the first school curriculum was officially adopted to include English, Latin, commercial law, chemistry, business office math, general science, modern history, American history, civics household art, biology, physics, and social problems.

By 1921 Stow had 550 students attending school and a teacher's salary was $160 a month. New High School

In July 1921 construction began on the high school, a first in the 175-year history of Stow. The school, which cost $84,417, was finished in 1924. The new school was said to be the "ultimate" in schools. It was eventually named Workman, after Miss Velma "Granny" Workman in 1968. Miss Workman joined the Stow schools in 1930.

Stow continued to grow and by 1925 the schools were once again overcrowded and had to use portable classrooms. Voters approved an addition for the high school. Thus, a gym and more classrooms were constructed.

In 1926 Silver Lake merged with Stow and it became known at that time as the Stow Township Rural School District. Silver Lake left this district in 1950 to merge with Cuyahoga Falls.

Overcrowding Continues

Overcrowding once again became a problem in 1939. To help alleviate this problem Stow Grade School, now called Highland, was built.

The students in Grades 1-6 were moved from Central School to Stow Grade School and Grades 7 and up went to Workman. However this lasted for only five years. As the community increased in size the students were moved back to Central School in 1953 for classes. Grade School classrooms held up to 45 students and the fourth- and fifth-graders went back to the high school building.

Woodland School and Riverview School were built in 1955. Each school had 10 rooms. In just two years, both schools were overcrowded and another 11 rooms were added.

In 1958 voters agreed to another bond issue and a new school was ready to open in 1960. This building, Lakeview, was a junior high school and housed the seventh grade. Once again, the school became overcrowded and it became the high school after an addition was added in 1965.

In 1962 Stow became an independent school district. Three elementary schools also opened around this time. Fishcreek Elementary opened in 1961; Echo Hills in 1964; and Indian Trail School in 1969. In 1970 Kimpton, a junior high school, opened its doors to the students. Kimpton was named after Superintendent Walter B. Kimpton. Kimpton and Workman were both junior high schools at this time.

In 1972 the school system was once again overcrowded. In an attempt to solve the problem, Kimpton, Workman, and Lakeview were reorganized with Kimpton housing the 7th and 8th grade students. The high school was divided with Workman housing the 9th and 10th grade students and Lakeview the 11th and 12th graders. Schools became over crowded in the 1980's and voters approved a new school levy to build a new high school on the 91-acre site on East Graham Road.

Recent History

The new $17 million high school opened in 1987, uniting the 9th, 10th, 11th, and 12th grade students. In 1988, the schools were again overcrowded. To help solve this problem the sixth-graders were removed from the elementary schools and placed in the Lakeview building. The fifth-graders followed in the fall of 1996. The old Centralized School, which had been used as the City Hall, was also demolished in 1988. In 1989 the Workman School building was sold to a developer and the school was razed.

In June 1996, Board of Education offices and the Central Office staff moved to 4350 Allen Road. The school board purchased the building through the unvoted debt option.

Stow-Munroe Falls High School Addition

Construction was completed in January 1999 for a $1.2 million 10-classroom addition to the east end of the high school. The 11,250-square-foot addition includes two science labs. The Senior Study Hall was renovated as two classroom spaces. No bond issue was passed to fund this addition. The addition was needed due to overcrowding at the high school level. The school serves about 2,000 students and 130 teaching staff. Six tennis courts and more students' parking were completed in 2000.

STUDENTS WITH DISABILITIES

Operating Standards for Ohio's Schools dictate, "instruction shall include intervention that is designed to meet student needs." It goes on to say that instruction must be consistent with educational research and proven practices and be appropriate to the student's age, developmental needs, learning styles, abilities, and English proficiency.

If you suspect that a student has a disability, the first step is to refer the student to your building RTI. These teams vary from building to building, but your mentor should be able to help you with the referral process. The purpose of RTI is to design interventions that would enable the student to be successful in the regular classroom. Data is collected on each intervention. The RTI might meet many times regarding one student. Each time they meet, data is discussed and recommendations are made.

Only when intervention strategies are exhausted and unsuccessful will a student be referred by RTI for a multifactor evaluation to determine if they are eligible as a student with a disability. As part of that referral process, you will need to provide the data collected through the RTI process.

If you have any questions about special education programs or services, please feel free to contact Special Services at 330-689-5430.

GIFTED IDENTIFICATION PROCEDURES

Students may be referred for possible gifted identification on an ongoing basis by child request (self-referral), teacher recommendation, parent/guardian request, peer referral, or referral by any other individual familiar with the child's ability. The District shall provide at least two opportunities a year in all grade levels for screening/identification, through the referral process, once in the Fall and once in the Spring. Referral forms are available in the main office of each school building, on the District Gifted Services website, or through the gifted coordinator.

Upon receipt of a referral, the District will follow a three-part approach to screen and assess students who perform or show potential for performing at high levels of accomplishment. Possible testing will be done with parent permission to determine identification.
